WELCOME

THE 2025 WESTERN POSITIVE PSYCHOLOGY ASSOCIATION CONFERENCE AIMS TO BRING TOGETHER A COLLABORATIVE SCIENTIFIC COMMUNITY OF FACULTY, STUDENTS, SCHOLARS, AND PRACTITIONERS TO ADVANCE AND SUPPORT RIGOROUS, EVIDENCE-BASED EMPIRICAL RESEARCH AND APPLICATION IN THE SCIENCE OF HAPPINESS, EXCELLENCE, AND OPTIMAL HUMAN FUNCTIONING. THE THEME OF THE 2025 WPPA CONFERENCE IS "CULTIVATING COMMUNITY AND CONNECTION: ADVANCES IN POSITIVE RELATIONSHIPS AND WELL-BEING." THIS YEAR, THE CONFERENCE EXPLORES THE CRITICAL ROLE OF COMMUNITY AND SOCIAL CONNECTIONS IN FOSTERING PSYCHOLOGICAL WELL-BEING, HIGHLIGHTING CUTTING-EDGE RESEARCH ON POSITIVE RELATIONSHIPS. WE WELCOME YOU TO THE 9TH ANNUAL WPPA CONFERENCE WITH OPEN ARMS AND MINDS.

WPPA

The Western Positive Psychology Association (WPPA) is dedicated to creating a collaborative scientific community of faculty, students, and scholars to advance and support academic agenda in the field of positive psychology in the western region of the United States. The WPPA encourages education, research and dissemination of knowledge in positive psychology and supports the professional development of positive psychology faculty and students in the region. The Western Positive Psychology Association (WPPA) welcomes you to its 9th Annual Conference, hosted by California State University – Sacramento (CSUS). This year's theme—Cultivating Community and Connection—reflects WPPA's commitment to advancing well-being through relationships, inspired by Christopher Peterson's reminder that "other people matter." We look forward to meaningful conversations, new collaborations, and continued growth in our shared pursuit of human flourishing.

STEWART I. DONALDSON, PH.D.

PRESIDENT & CO-FOUNDER

Stewart I. Donaldson is a distinguished university professor, the executive director of the university's Claremont Evaluation Center (CEC) and The Evaluators' Institute (TEI). Professor Donaldson works with students on a wide range of topics across several fields and programs at CGU, including the science of positive psychology, positive organizational psychology, and program design and evaluation.

SHARI YOUNG KUCHENBECKER, PH.D.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR & CO-FOUNDER

Shari Young Kuchenbecker, Ph.D., from UCLA, with a B.A. from Stanford, has collaborated on research across the Western Region, focusing on the nexus of emotions, thoughts, and actions. As Director of R.W. Research, Inc., she emphasizes pro-social skills, empathy, stress neurohormones, and cognitive-emotional regulation, contributing significantly to developmental studies and social change through research publications presented at APA and WPA with Phil Zimbardo and Albert Bandura.

Acknowledging Stewart and Shari's indispensable role, we express our deepest gratitude for their vision, leadership, and mentorship. Their efforts have been crucial in bringing this conference to life, setting a standard of excellence and collaboration.

A MESSAGE FROM ACADEMIC CONFERENCE CHAIR

The Department of Psychology at Sac State is honored to host the 9th Annual Conference of the Western Positive Psychology Association. It is our absolute pleasure to welcome you to this year's conference, Cultivating Community and Connection: Advances in Positive Relationships and Well-being.

The theme of our conference serves as a reminder that sharing the journey with others matters and highlights the fundamental role of social bonds in fostering individual happiness and collective flourishing. By bringing together scholars and practitioners dedicated to advancing the science of relationships, happiness, and well-being, we celebrate the meaningful contributions that drive our field forward.

The conference emerged through countless hours of dedication from our organizing committee, volunteers, presenters, and supporters. Your participation in this event deserves our deepest gratitude.

Let us embrace our field's major message of connection in promoting well-being as we dive into the upcoming days filled with inspiring talks and new research along with stimulating discussions. We will build fresh partnerships, pose courageous inquiries and remember our core motivations. The true value of events like these conferences stems not solely from knowledge sharing but from the people who bring that knowledge to life.

Let us join forces to build and cherish meaningful relationships together.

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

CULTIVATING COMMUNITY AND CONNECTION: ADVANCES IN POSITIVE RELATIONSHIPS AND WELL-BEING.

OUR MISSION

The 9th WPPA Conference, hosted at California State University – Sacramento, explores how we can cultivate community and connection through advances in positive relationships and well-being. Building on insights from post-COVID-19 research and two decades of scientific progress, the conference reflects the belief that “other people matter.” WPPA continues its mission to promote research, collaboration, and the application of positive psychology across the western United States and beyond.

COMMUNITY BUILDING

The Western Positive Psychology Association 9th Annual Conference centers on the theme Cultivating Community and Connection. Guided by the idea that “other people matter,” we are committed to creating an environment that fosters meaningful relationships and shared learning. This gathering reflects our collective effort to advance the field of positive psychology through collaboration, mutual support, and a strong sense of community.

Saturday, April 6

Teaching Positive Psychology: An Exploration of the Rewards, Challenges and Shared Experience

This workshop focuses on teaching Positive Psychology classes delivered in different modalities. It will explore course content, teaching methods and assessments, and discuss successes and challenges in creating and teaching courses based in Positive Psychology. This interactive workshop will give participants a chance to engage in activities used in classes, share their experiences, brainstorm ideas and connect with colleagues.

Christopher Old, Eds, LPCC, LMFT, NCC Counsel, Professor, Sierra College; Melikşah Demir, Ph.D., Rekhi Singh Endowed Professor in Happiness, California State University – Sacramento, and Natalie Sherrell, MA, LMFT, CARE LC, Sierra College

CONFERENCE WORKSHOPS

Sunday, April 6

Discover Your Best Self: Strengthen Your PERMA+4 with Positive Psychology Interventions (PPIs)

What if you could actively enhance your well-being and help those around you flourish? This engaging and interactive workshop is your chance to dive into the science of happiness and success through Positive Psychology Interventions (PPIs). In this workshop, you will discover practical, evidence-based tools to assess and enhance your own PERMA+4 well-being, learn how these tools can be applied to help your family, friends, and community thrive, and gain insights into designing personalized PPIs Interventions to boost flourishing in any area of life.

Stewart Donaldson, Ph.D., Vicki Cabrera, Ph.D., & Tatiana Shemiakina MA & Ph.D. Student Claremont Graduate University

Beyond the Finish Line: Building Connection, Purpose, and Mattering in Competitive Sport

This workshop introduces Mental and Emotional Self-Management (MESM) and Mindfulness in Recovery (MIR) as complementary interventions for substance and behavioral disorders recovery. Participants will learn skills for nervous system regulation, values-based visioning, and attention training, enhancing recovery and intentional living, with insights into ongoing research.

Sonya Looney MAPP, MS (and former World Champion athlete) & Suzann Pileggi Pawelski, MAPP

Purposeful Play

This workshop looks to target parents of children ages three to eight years. Two topics will be covered: parental satisfaction and metacognition and open-ended questions. After attending the workshop, parents will be motivated to play with their children and increase their skills in asking open-ended questions.

Kelly Field, MA, Claremont Graduate University

CONFERENCE WORKSHOPS

Sunday, April 6

Strengths for Good: Cultivating Character Strengths to Create Meaningful Change

Drawing from positive psychology research on purpose and meaning, as well as the VIA Character Strengths framework, the workshop will offer practical applications for fostering positive change across diverse contexts, such as families, activism, and prisons. Participants will engage in evidence-based content, group discussions, and gamified exercises designed to help them identify, explore, and apply their strengths for good.

Rotem Elinav, MA, MAPP & PsyD student, Claremont Graduate University

Exploring How a Health Coaching Intervention Can Help Improve the Quality of Life and Wellbeing of Breast Cancer Survivors

Despite advancements leading to higher breast cancer survival rates, survivors often face complex challenges and numerous physical, psychological, and social challenges following treatment, which can negatively impact their Quality of Life (QoL) and overall well-being. To address this gap, this study aims to design, pilot, and evaluate an individualized health coaching intervention tailored to address the multifaceted needs of breast cancer survivors, answering the question “now what?” post-treatment. Grounded in Social Cognitive Theory (SCT), Self-Determination Theory (SDT), and the PERMAH well-being model, the intervention integrates motivational interviewing, goal setting, and appreciative coaching strategies to promote autonomy, competence, and holistic well-being. Employing a one-arm quasi-experimental mixed methods design, the study evaluates the intervention's effectiveness. The study's findings will provide evidence-based insights into the effectiveness, feasibility, and sustainability of health coaching as a post-treatment intervention. By addressing survivorship challenges and fostering long-term improvements in QoL, this research contributes to advancing holistic, patient-centered survivorship care for breast cancer survivors.
